DEWEY GAINS ON SECOND BALLOT

Meanderings

By Wash Fayette

When Barbara, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Sells, city, brought a small jar into the office Tuesday, and I glimpsed a large insect in the jar, I immediately thought "well, here is one of my old praying mantis friends, first of the season."

However, when I took another look at the big insect, which is nearly as large as an adult praying mantis, I identified it as a hellgramite, which lives in the water in the larva stage, usually hiding under stones and other articles in streams or ponds. The waterbug comes forth from its aquatic surroundings and develops into the pupa stage, then in about one month it changes into the adult insect.

The hellgramites have sharp horns or pincers, some  $\frac{3}{4}$  of an inch in length, and crossed near the ends.

Fishermen use many of the hellgramites for bait.

The adult hellgramites are a brownish gray in color, with large wingspread.

Floods Sweep All Oklahoma

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 24—(P)—Highway patrolmen, working against the crest deadline of the rampaging Canadian River, early today evacuated 300 persons in the eastern Oklahoma farm community of Whitefield.

Persons in that town were more fortunate than those in other sections of Oklahoma, where nine have been found drowned and 3,000 others made homeless. With other communications out, walkie-talkie radio sets were pressed into service in an effort to locate other flood victims.

Hydro in the western Oklahoma wheat belt was hardest hit. An unofficial 19 inches of rain caused a flash flood on Deer Creek which inundated the city.

At Okmulgee in northeastern Oklahoma, national guardmen patrolled streets against looters after the business district was under water.

Okmulgee Creek, which cuts through the heart of the city of 18,000 persons, forced almost 2,000 persons from their homes. All roads from the town were cut off by the high waters.

Pay To Ministers Called too Low

LAKESIDE, June 24—(P)—Many ministers and their families are experiencing serious hardships because of low pastoral salaries, Methodist Bishop H. Lester Smith of Ohio said today.

He told the northeastern Ohio Methodist conference that a great number of labor groups were "warranted in their requests for increases in wages."

The conference subsequently approved a study of plans for ministerial support.

The conference also approved action of the recent general conference in opposing any system of peacetime universal military training.

Bait Stations Are Set Up For Rat Drive

7 Locations Announced Throughout the City In New Campaign

Location of seven "bait stations" for distribution of poison to kill rats Saturday in residential areas of Washington C. H. was announced Thursday by Dr. William O. Bolton, county sanitarian.

The bait station locations are at these private homes, located throughout the city:

Mrs. Ed Williams (Ray Jennings), 1020 N. North Street; Mrs. W. B. Lansing, 405 Van Deman Ave.; Ernie Snyder, 604 Leesburg Avenue; Mrs. Herb Crosswhite, 548 Harrison Street; Mrs. Ed Boswell, 610 Sycamore Street; George Darlington, 742 Washington Avenue; and Mrs. Bessie Reeves, 1112 East Paint Street.

Meantime, City Manager Winslow W. Hill said no bait will be issued to any person under 21 years of age. Also, Hill declared, residents will sign receipts for the bait taken from these stations.

Second Offensive

The second offensive against rodents which cause uncounted thousands of dollars in damage annually in the city will be carried out on two fronts.

Downtown areas, covered in the preliminary campaign last month in which the old city garbage dump also was "blitzed" by pest control men, will be baited once again. The downtown areas will be baited by workers of the Arab Pest Control Service.

But it will be up to the citizens to do their share in the residential districts, both Hill and Dr. Bolton pointed out.

Dr. Bolton warned that rats from the outlying areas will reinfest the downtown district within six months if steps are not taken to eradicate them now.

The poison baits to be distributed will be of a type not poisonous to human beings or animals other than rodents—except, Dr. Bolton said, they will make human beings and animals ill and subject to vomiting.

Not 'Attractive' to Kids

The baits themselves will be shredded apples, sliced to about the size of French-fried potatoes. Over these slices will be sprinkled the poison (in powder form) and—according to Dr. Bolton—they will not have the appearance of apples, or anything which might be "attractive" for a youngster to pick up.

In two days, the water in the apple will kill the effect of the poison and will render the baits non-poisonous. This will assure that no child or animal will be liable to become ill from the baits after the drive has ended.

Full instructions will accompany the poison. In addition, the Washington C. H. Lions Club has sent out pamphlets describing the rat control program and means of ridding residences of the rodents.

No bait will be given out to householders prior to Saturday, Dr. Bolton said.

Man Survives Fall Into 7,000-Volt Line

AKRON, June 24—(P)—Joseph W. Barrett, 45, last night survived fall against a high tension line which sheriff's deputies reported carried 7,000 volts. Barrett was working with a construction crew when he fell against a transformer. He was reported in fair condition in nearby Barberton Citizens Hospital.

The regular June collection period was to have ended June 20, but Fabb and the county commissioners have extended it to July 20, the full 30 day maximum extension under their jurisdiction under the law.

The collection was lightened for this period by the advance payment of approximately $70,000 during the December collection when many paid in full for the entire year.

Under the proposal reported ready for signing this royalty would be boosted to 20-cents-a-ton and would raise an estimated $100,000,000 a year. From this Lewis wants to pay his retired miners $100 monthly, together with benefits for dependents.

CLEVELAND, June 24—(P)—The widow of a traffic victim, Mrs. Mary Behm, 63, yesterday was awarded the $250 fine paid by the convicted driver of the automobile which fatally injured her husband, Frank J. Common Pleas Judge Clifford L. Bell of Belmont County found James A. Penberthy, 22, guilty of second-degree manslaughter in the case and ordered his fine turned over to Mrs. Behm.

The captain, who is Army board chairman by virtue of his position as commanding officer of the county's National Guard company, said a caretaker is at the building daily from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. to maintain company equipment.

Presence of the kindergarten pupils would keep him from carrying out normal maintenance operations on vehicles, guns and other equipment used by Company M, 168th Infantry Regiment which is housed in the Armory. Capt. Williams pointed out.

Guard rules, the captain said,

Reds Seal Off Berlin

Food and Coal Shipments Blocked From Allied Zone by Russian Action

(By the Associated Press)

Russia cut off electric power and rail shipments of food and coal to the western zones of Berlin today. The water supply was affected in part of the French zone. It was the most drastic step yet taken by the Soviets to force the U. S., Britain and France from Berlin.

In Warsaw, Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov of Russia and foreign ministers of seven states of the Russian sphere made plans for a separate government in eastern Germany. This was the reaction to the western powers' agreement to establish a semi-independent government in western Germany.

The new pressure in Berlin stemmed from the Russian effort to force her currency on all Berlin as the only valid money. The western powers refused to accept the Soviet decree. They brought their own new currency into the western areas of the capital.

The Berlin German city council declared both moneys valid. The Russians insisted only their could circulate and threatened punishment to those accepting western money. The western allies recognized the Russian money as valid.

Gen. Lucius D. Clay said the Russians "cannot drive us out of Berlin by any action short of war."

The American military governor said the latest moves of the Soviets indicated they "are trying to put on the final pressure to drive us out of Berlin."

Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, primate of Hungary, was reported to have excommunicated members of the Hungarian government and parliament who nationalized Catholic schools last week.

The decision means that religious, charitable and patriotic organizations may continue bingo parties without fear of prosecution.

Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt dissented.

A constitutional provision barring lotteries is not self-executing, the supreme court ruled.

Laws must be passed to make it operative. Thus, the court decided, the legislature had authority to exclude bingo from the prohibited list when not operated for personal gain.

The decision was made in a case involving Murray S. Parker of Summit County. He was arrested on a 12-count indictment charging him with operating bingo games.

In another decision, the supreme court upheld State Motor Vehicle Registrar Edward T. Fogarty in refusing free license plates to the Church of the Nazarene for buses used to carry children to Sunday and Bible schools.

Two Israeli ministers resigned.

Fayette County On List of Areas Needing Hospital

Project Here Small
By Comparison with Other Communities

Fayette County's projected Memorial Hospital today was listed by a member of the Federal Hospital Council as one of the most needed in Ohio.

Joseph W. Fichter, master of the state Grange, placed Fayette County among the 12 areas in Ohio where there is greatest need of hospitals when he presented an A-B-C primer of the state's new hospital plan.

The other areas were at West Union, Pomeroy, Batavia, Georgetown, New Lexington, St. Marys, Bowling Green Barnesville, Ashland, Hillsboro and Van Wert.

Plans for the Fayette County hospital have been approved by both state and federal government agencies. A second set of plans has been drawn when the $360,000 voted through a bond issue to build the original 55-bed institution was inadequate to meet rising costs. These plans have been approved, too, and the County Hospital Board has given the green light for construction to start sometime this year if possible.

Small By Comparison

The new plan calls for fewer beds...but it is designed for enlargement.

Already the hospital construction program is in full swing in the state. Fayette County's plans were the first accepted, although they call for one of the smallest outlays of money of any. Some projects, in cities much smaller, call for both much larger hospitals and expenditures.

Here are some figures for comparison:

Ashland General Hospital Ashland, 100 beds, new construction, total cost to be $1,245,000; Defiance Hospital, Defiance, 66 beds, new construction, $825,000; Fayette County Memorial Hospital, Washington C. H., general, 32 beds, new construction, $529,000; Greene County Memorial Hospital, Xenia, general, 75 beds, new construction, $1,214,000; Mount St. Marys Hospital Nelsonville, general, 74 beds, new construction, $1,176,000; Clinton Memorial Hospital, Wilmington, general 65 beds, new construction, $978,200; Mercy Hospital, Urbana, general 56 beds, new construction, $800,000; Mary Rutan Hospital, Bellefontaine, general, 36 beds additional to present hospital, $424,888; Brown Memorial Hospital, Conneaut, 39 beds addition to General Hospital, $300,000; Richland County Tuberculosis Sanitarium, Mansfield, a tuberculosis hospital, 84 beds, new construction, $801,699.

Advocated

Fichter said "experience so far has demonstrated" that (1) the duration of the program must be extended considerably beyond the present five-year period, (2) national and state governmental appropriations should be made to absorb deficits in operation of hospital in financially poor communities, (3) legislation should be enacted to provide financial assistance in the development of rural area health units, and (4) continued research on the planning and operation of health programs is necessary.

The plan, approved last February, envisions at least some hospital facilities in every county.

Mainly About People

Miss La Verne Satchell, has accepted a position as beauty operator at the Cherry Beauty Shop.

Mrs. David Kimball of the Good Hope Road, underwent a major operation in Greenfield Hospital, Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Frank Baker, entered Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, Wednesday afternoon where she will undergo major surgery Friday morning.

Mrs. Floyd Burr, of the Plymouth Road, who underwent an eye operation at Mt. Carmel Hospital, Tuesday, is improving nicely.

Mrs. Harry McNutt Jr., nee Leona Sexton 632 East Paint St. underwent a minor operation in Grant Hospital, Columbus, Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Ida M. Rodgers, was returned from Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus to the Flint Nursing Home Wednesday in the Cox and Parrett ambulance.

Mrs. Robert Slager was taken from her apartment at 115½ N. Fayette Street, to White Cross Hospital, Tuesday evening, in the Cox and Parrett ambulance.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard G. Newman of the Camp Grove Road, are the parents of a six pound seven ounce daughter, in Greenfield Hospital Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Samuel Speakman 1131 Gregg Street, entered White Cross Hospital, Columbus Thursday morning for observation and treatment. He was taken there in the Cox and Parrett ambulance.

Miss Helen Brooks was removed from her home 404 South Main Street, to the Greenfield Hospital, for an appendectomy Thursday morning. She was taken there in the Klever ambulance.

Bennie Garringer, four and one half year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Garringer 301 North Fayette Street, is recovering at his home from a tonsillectomy performed in Greenfield Hospital, Monday.

Mrs. Robert E. Wehr and infant daughter, Patricia Elaine, were brought from Mt. Carmel Hospital, Columbus, to their home 246 West Elm Street Wednesday morning in the Klever ambulance.

Bishop Joseph C. Willing, a cousin of Tom and George Hartman of Washington C. H., and a nephew of the late Mrs. Paul Hartman, was among those officiating at the silver jubilee of the ordination of Monsignor Matthew Smith in Denver, Colo. Msgr. Smith is the founder and editor-in-chief of the Register System, a Catholic publication.

At the time we get down to the end of the second roll call we ought to have a pretty good idea what's happening and I want to know what the delegates have in mind."

Dewey lieutenants claim there are at least 33 second choice votes for Dewey in the Michigan delegation.

Tafe Reports "Progress" Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio conferred with members of the Utah and Kentucky delegations, and told reporters he also had been carrying on a lot of "telephone conferences."

Asked whether he was making any progress, Taft smiled. "Yes, I think so," he said.

As the time neared for the first call of the states at 1 P. M. (EST), the New Yorker's forces were ready to pour every available scrap of voting fuel into the boiler in the first two tries for the coveted position.

With that steam up, the Dewey strategists counted on coasting to victory on the third roll call if they don't pull the trick earlier.

Against this, Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and a scattering of favorite sons fought a defensive delaying action.

Dewey Gain is Forecast

Dewey leaders claimed they will reach 500 votes only 48 short of the nomination—by the second ballot. And with that start, they said nothing can stop them.

These claims were quickly and vigorously disputed from the other camps.

The position's strategy was for each candidate to hold his lines as firmly as possible for two ballots.

This would require cooperation—and it seemed likely to be forth-coming—from such favorite sons as Gov. Earl Warren of California and Senators Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut and Saltonstall of Massachusetts.

Warren Votes Are Key

Warren's bloc of 53 California votes was one of the key links in the coalition, and Dewey's forces were making strenuous but thus far futile efforts to woo the westerner away.

The coalition—agreed upon in talks between Taft, Stassen, Gov. James Duff of Pennsylvania, Gov. Kim Sigler of Michigan and National Committee man Harold Mitchell of Connecticut—was to force a convention recess before the third ballot.

This would give time for the opposition to look over its strength and possibly agree on a single candidate to back.

The plan had the approval of Warren and of Sigler, who placed the name of Senator Arthur Vandenberg before the weary delegates in the early hours of this morning.

Vandenberg, self-styled "problem child" of his supporters because he says he doesn't want the nomination, remained one of the most likely compromise candidates of the Dewey dissenters.

There was authoritative word from Stassen's camp, meanwhile, that the only candidate the former Minnesota governor would consider going for, other than himself, is Vandenberg.

Tafe's hope of winning the nomination seemed to lie in the wild maneuvering that would follow any collapse of the Dewey boom.

At the time we get down to the end of the second roll call we ought to have a pretty good idea what's happening and I want to know what the delegates have in mind."

Governor Kim Sigler of Michigan told reporters he would take a poll of his delegates to indicate where they wanted to go if the nomination appeared lost to Vandenberg.

He said:

The Nation Today

Harold Sheridan Sells Interest In Restaurant

BY JAMES MARLOW
PHILADELPHIA, June 24—(P)—If you could see this Republican convention from the inside, you'd understand how cold politics are.

There are two worlds here:

1. The roar of the crowd, the lights, the music, the singing, the routine chores of the convention itself.

2. The behind-the-scenes dickering.

Take a look at the candidates themselves, the men who want to be picked by this convention as the Republican nominee for president.

New York's Governor Thomas E. Dewey, Ohio's Senator Robert A. Taft, Minnesota's former Governor Harold E. Stassen, California's Governor Earl Warren, among them.

In the morning the 1,094 delegates flock out to the convention hall for the speeches.

But not one of the candidates shows up there. They stay back in their hotel rooms, with telephones near at hand, and their lieutenants working feverishly.

Their job is to try to win over the support of those delegates who are so busy on the convention floor.

The raw and naked desire for political power is wide open here.

But it isn't hard to understand the drama in this show if these things are taken into account:

1. The presidency of the United States is the highest honor this country has to offer.

2. The Republicans have a better chance of winning this election than at any time since Franklin D. Roosevelt won the Democratic nomination in 1932.

3. With a couple of possible exceptions, the top men here are at the climax of their public service careers.

Taft, at 59, may get another crack at the nomination but he's been skating around the edge of it for years. His whole life up to this point has been a build-up for the nomination.

Dewey has been in the public eye a long time—as a racket-buster and then as governor of New York, although he's only 46.

He came close to the nomination in 1940, got it in 1944 but lost, and now once again is looking for it.

Warren is serving his second term as governor of California. He has given his state distinguished service.

But with him, as in the case of Dewey, there isn't much more he can do to win prestige. His life is at a climax here.

Stassen alone of all the candidates seems to be the one who can run again for nomination, if he loses out this time.

But where he goes from here—if he doesn't get the nomination—is anybody's guess.

Anyway, with each man's life at a peak here, it is no wonder that they are trying furiously to win the nomination.

But this convention, the speeches and the business of the convention itself are only going through the motions because—

Every one here knows that the real business is being settled quietly behind the scenes.

$18,000 Hospital Gift Is Announced

CHILLICOTHE, June 24—One of three operating rooms planned for the new surgical department of Chillicothe Hospital, will be in memory of Dr. Charles Hoyt, late of Chillicothe.

The room is the result of an $18,000 subscription toward the $750,000 fund for the addition to the hospital. The gift was made by members of Dr. Hoyt's family.

In the meantime the fund is mounting rapidly, and a large part of the $750,000 has been subscribed.

Crisis? No, but —

County Is Short of Teachers For Music in Rural Schools

During the school year, there's "music in the air" in Fayette County's rural schools.

But right now, it isn't quite sure as to whom the music teachers will be at three Fayette County schools this autumn. Staff resignations have all but cleaned out the music departments—at least, along vocal lines.

Despite the current shortage, William J. Hiltz, county superintendent of schools, pointed out:

"It's not a crisis. We'll have someone to teach the classes—I promise that."

Mrs. Evelyn Sharpstein, vocal music instructor at Wayne (Good Hope) and Bloomingburg Schools submitted her resignation at the end of the school year. And Mrs. Donald Schwaiger, Jeffersonville School instructor, has left her post to do musical therapy work at the Veteran's Hospital in Chillicothe.

That leaves only two elementary vocal teachers in the county, Hiltz said. They are Mrs. Helen Huff, on the "county music circuit," and Mrs. Louella Campbell,

It is unknown, Hiltz added, whether Mrs. Kathryn Arbogast of Mt. Sterling, part-time instructor at Madison Mills High School will return. The superintendent at Madison Mills, Milford Barker, was out of town and could not be reached to answer this question.

Mrs. Huff will be back at her old job in the fall, teaching the "do, re, mi . . . of elementary singing" to pupils of all elementary schools in the county excepting those in the four high school centers of Good Hope, Bloomingburg, Madison Mills and Jeffersonville.

Roland Chase, band leader in the four schools, will be back at his job behind the baton this fall.

At any rate, Hiltz repeated his promise that children will be learning "America, the Beautiful," "Swanee River," "Loch Lomond" and all the old school favorites when school opens in the autumn.

South Fayette Street Next

Resurfacing Bids to Be Opened Soon

With work progressing rapidly on the Court Street-Columbus Avenue paving, and fairly good idea of the excellent street the paving will make, it is interesting to know that bids for the resurfacing of South Fayette Street, along the same lines as the present paving, will be opened July 8.

The South Fayette Street paving, which will extend from Court Street southward to the corporation line, will place that important thoroughfare in good condition for many years, and it, too, will be level and smooth.

GE To Boost Prices On Industrial Products

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 24—(P)—The General Electric Company reports that prices in some industrial lines will increase July 1.

The price of industrial motors and generators of more than one horsepower will be boosted five percent, GE said last night. Industrial control equipment will increase 10 percent.

Some of the famed wineries of Europe produce as much in an entire year as a small California winery bottles in a day.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN

Of Tired Kidneys

When millions of kidneys can permit poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or gently pinches, smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, especially helpful for 40 years. Doans give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Shower Honors
Joyce Crumley, Bride-Elect

Miss Mary Lou Rief complimented Miss Joyce Crumley, whose marriage will be an event of Sunday, June 27, to Mr. Robert Denton, with a lovely miscellaneous shower at her home on Wednesday evening.

Contests were provided for the pleasure of the guests and the awards in these, won by Miss Martha Denney, Mrs. Betty DeVoe and Miss Mary Lou Toops were in turn graciously presented to the honor guest.

The guests also wrote recipes and interesting memos in an autograph book, which was also presented the popular bride-elect.

The beautiful gifts were arranged on the dining room table centered with a bouquet of pink roses, and were carried into the living room where Miss Crumley opened them at a small table and responded sweetly to each.

A tempting desert course carrying out a dainty pink and white color scheme was served at small tables which brought the pleasant event to a close.

Miss Rief was assisted in the gracious hospitalities of the evening by her mother Mrs. Loren Rief.

Guests included were: Mrs. H. H. Denton, Mrs. Charles Crumley, Mrs. Betty DeVoe, Misses Mary Lou Toops, Martha Denney, Jeanie Spencer, Peggy Morris, Helen Cameron, Jean Howard, Cindy Harper, Cynthia Gage, Carolyn Lou Bidwell, Pat Mitchell, Mrs. Charles Crumley Jr. and Mrs. Stanley Mark.

Mrs. Walter A. Robinson
At half after three o'clock Saturday afternoon in the Methodist Church in Montgomery West Virginia, Miss Annie Elizabeth Robinson daughter of Mrs. O. K. Robinson of Montgomery became the bride of Mr. Walter Allen Robinson also of Montgomery, son of Mr. George A. Robinson Sr., of this city and the late Mrs. Robinson.

The Rev. Byron W. John read the single ring ceremony in a candlelight setting of white gladioli and fern.

Preceding the exchange of the nuptial vows, Mrs. A. K. Bailey played a selection of organ music. Miss Martha Ross, soloist, sang "I Love Thee" and "Because" accompanied by Mrs. Bailey, who also played the traditional wedding march.

Given in marriage by her brother, Mr. T. H. Robinson, the bride was attired in a white crepe street length dress with white hat, white lace gloves and white sandals. She carried a white Bible with an orchid marker which was showered with white ribbon and fern.

Mrs. Kenneth Talbott of Charleston, served as matron of honor. She was wearing a grey crepe dress, white picture hat, white lace gloves, white sandals and a corsage of gardenias.

Miss Rebecca Jane Robinson, neice of the groom, was flower girl. She wore a dress of white organdy and carried a colonial bouquet.

Mr. George A. Robinson, Jr., served as best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. A. W. Vickers, Mr. James Holmes, Mr. Carlos McAfee and Mr. Kenneth Crow.

At the close of the ceremony, Miss Martha Ross sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Robinson, the bride's mother, was wearing a grey crepe dress, pink flowered hat and a pink rose corsage.

A green and white motif decorated the dining room of the church for the reception for 150 guests. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Music was played by Miss Alma Dennis Brown.

The bride is a graduate of the Montgomery High School, attended West Virginia Institute of Technology, and McGill University.

Four Hostesses Entertain At Lovely Supper - Bridge On Wednesday Evening

Another beautiful party was added to the season's social calendar when Mrs. Hoy Simons, her daughter Miss Helen Simons, Mrs. Clarence L. Snyder and Mrs. Alice Creamer Renick, extended charming hospitality to over one hundred guests on Wednesday evening, at a delightful supper bridge given at the Washington Country Club, at six thirty.

Summer flowers were admired in tasteful arrangements throughout the club lounge.

The several small tables lovely in their appointments were each adorned with pastel colored flowers of small varieties, and gypsophila, in small crystal vases.

Gold and silver butterflies were perched on the blossoms, as a clever added suggestion of the summer season, for the serving of the delicious two course repast.

The guests found the evening most pleasant in the spirited game of progressive bridge which was concluded with the presenting of attractively wrapped awards.

The high score trophy was awarded Mrs. Robert Edge, second to Mrs. James Summers, third to Mrs. Clinton D. Young, while fourth went to Mrs. Robert Dunton.

The gracious hostesses included as out of town guests Mrs. Carl Baer of Glendale, Mrs. Mary K. McIlvane and Mrs. W. W. Trovillo of Frankfort, Mrs. H. Vernon Scott of Chicago, Ill., Mrs. D. S. Mana of St. Louis, Mo., Mrs. J. K. Kauffmann, Miss Anna Marti and Mrs. Louis Scheppelle of Dubuque, Iowa, Mrs. Maynard Davids of Wilmington, Mrs. Laura Brelsingford of Dayton, Mrs. Elsie McIlravy of Seattle, Washington and Mrs. R. M. Fisher of Lakewood.

Garden Clubs Are Entertained In Chillicothe

Members of the Marilee and Twin Oaks Garden Clubs, of Wayne Township motored to the home of Mrs. Ray Smith, Sunrise Road, Carlisle Hill, Chillicothe on Wednesday where they enjoyed an all day picnic with lunch served at noon, on the spacious lawn of the hostess' home.

The afternoon was spent in viewing the flowers in the yards and the clever mantel arrangements of orange day lilies in pillow vases, and Regal lilies in water gardens and bottles throughout the spacious rooms. Later the group was entertained at the home of Mrs. Trimble Parker, who also has one of the most outstanding flower gardens in the city.

The wide variety of trees shrubs, and perennials, were admired, in grounds, and a large container of Regal lilies were arranged in the home. Those attending from the Twin Oaks Club were: Mrs. Lawrence Hoppe, Mrs. Everett Rife, Mrs. Clarence Thomas, Mrs. R. A. Braden, Mrs. W. W. Herdman, Mrs. Verne Wilson, Mrs. Robert Rodgers, Mrs. Glenn Smith, Mrs. Charles Garinger and Miss Marilyn Thomas Miss Minta Rowland, Miss Clara a guest:

GIVES YOU
new comfort, new convenience

All through the year the healthful cleanliness, the convenience and comfort of a plentiful supply of hot water is important to you and your family. Especially in summer, big washings and extra bathing make heavy demands on water heating equipment. That's when you will most appreciate the new comfort and convenience of a generous-sized hot water tank, well-insulated and gas-heated with thermostatic control to keep the temperature right. An abundant supply of hot water—with the economy of natural gas—will make this summer and the years to come easier for you, more healthful for your family. Now is a good time to find out about the newest in water-heating equipment.

Guard Recruits Sought by Company M

Training Given
In Armory Here

Openings Remain in Fayette County Unit

While the current parade of draft age men into the National Guard nationally is pushing the enrollment well beyond the quota fixed for the coming year, no similar large increase in enlistments has been registered in Washington C. H.

Captain Darrell Williams, commanding officer of the Fayette County guard unit, announced the enlistment of three youths in the organization within the past week.

But, he said, there is still room for more than doubling the present strength of Company M, 166th Infantry Regiment, the county unit.

The parade of enlistees nationally is prompted by the new selective service bill passed by Congress. President Truman will have until about the first week of July to sign it.

Until he does, Capt. Williams emphasized, draft-agers may gain draft exemption by joining the National Guard or one of the other organized reserve units offering regular military training.

New Enlistees Named

Enlistments announced by Capt. Williams were those of Louis H. Poole and Wayne E. Potts of Sabina and Robert E. Provost of Washington C. H.

The trio will begin formal drilling July 6 when Company M embarks upon its series of 48 drills during the 1948-49 fiscal year, Capt. Williams declared.

Guard drill activities for the 1947-48 fiscal year ended during May when the total of 48 authorized drills were completed.

Company M, a heavy-weapons infantry organization, is authorized a total strength of 150 enlisted men and seven officers. At present, the strength is 60 men and two officers.

In addition to Capt. Williams, the only other commissioned officer is 1st Lt. Robert H. Allen.

Officers Needed, Too

The organization is authorized four more lieutenants and one second lieutenant. Officers are badly needed, the captain said, if the drill program is to be carried out with top efficiency.

Included in July drills, Capt. Williams said, will be preparations for the two-week active duty period to be held August 15 to 29 at Camp Atterbury, Ind. It is not known yet whether the unit will travel to the camp by motor vehicle or railroad train.

In Washington, D. C., the National Guard Bureau several days ago fixed state quotas for

Presses in Job Shop To Be Running Monday Night for Visitors To See

Wedding announcement, with small dignified type?

Auction poster, with boxcar-sized letters?

Letterheads, invoices, business cards, premium booklets?

Yes, sir! The Washington News Publishing Company's job printing shop in the Record-Herald building can print them all, and then some.

The entire job printing department staff will be present Monday evening when the Record-Herald holds its long-awaited open house from 7 to 9 P. M.

Four job printing presses which supply most Fayette County business institutions and organizations with their graphic arts needs will be seen by visitors to the plant. The "job shop," as it is familiarly known, is in the same room with the Record-Herald's giant, metropolitan-style rotary printing press.

"You've heard of the man of distinction?" one printer asked an editorial staff member the other day. "Well, businesses of distinction are on the lookout for a place where they can get printing of distinction—and that's why they come to us."

guard units to provide a national total of 341,000 men during the month of April, as shown by late reports on the automobile industry.

During that month 99,080 new trucks were sold in 46 states, and when the totals for California, Rhode Island and Vermont are tabulated, it is expected the number will be around 108,000 sold during the month, or 20,000 more than produced in October, 1947.

New passenger car registrations for the same month, from 46 states, totaled 288,298 units, running well ahead of the figures from comparable states for April, 1947, when registrations totaled 264,283 units. Production in April was the highest for any month since the war ended.

What will be done about this remains uncertain, except that there is little likelihood of outright discharges. It is probable the guard will ask the new Congress meeting next January for a deficiency appropriation to provide the extra money needed for training the additional men.

Reports coming into Washington headquarters showed enlistment quotas are being exceeded in New York, Alabama, Texas and Arizona.

Meantime, Selective Service officials estimated registration of men between the ages 18 through 25 would begin within six weeks after President Truman signs the bill.

Officials said it would take about that long to get the machinery set up.

of course, the presses aren't the only items of interest in the print shop. There are cases of type, row on row—many styles too delicate or too fancy for normal use in the newspaper. There are cutters, folders and many gadgets which perform miraculous tasks of printing.

The printers will show how this machinery works, too. They'll run the platen press or some of the other items which help produce what our friend called "printing of distinction."

And, of course, the rest of the Record-Herald—from stem (the business office and news room) to stern (the mechanical department)—will be thrown open to its guests. The guests, in this case, are its readers and friends from the entire Fayette County area.

Truck Production At All Time High

Truck production in America reached an all time peak during the month of April, as shown by late reports on the automobile industry.

But information of the new influx of recruits indicates the guard may have 375,000 men signed up by the end of this week.

Officials told the Associated Press that apparently many units took the new enlistments before receiving their quota notices.

What will be done about this remains uncertain, except that there is little likelihood of outright discharges. It is probable the guard will ask the new Congress meeting next January for a deficiency appropriation to provide the extra money needed for training the additional men.

Revenue Worry Here Underlined By Tax Decision

Another Industry
Now Seeks Shift to Personal Property

Washington C. H. and Fayette County officials—not to mention the run-of-the-mine taxpayer—today had their money worries and hopes for the future underscored by a statement by State Tax Commissioner C. Emory Glander. Commissioner Glander declared the state Board of Tax Appeals had "in effect" expressed the opinion that two blast furnaces owned by the National Tube Co. of Lorain were personal property.

This was in line with the now famous Roseville Pottery case decision by the state supreme court. These two rulings—one by the Supreme Court and the other by the Board of Tax Appeals—give city and county officials here something to think about. It is the same virtually all over the state.

Officials here fear that the shift of property from the real to personal list for tax purposes not only will throw the whole tax system out of gear, but also result in a loss of needed revenue.

History Being Changed

For years, the land and just about everything on it was considered as real property. Then came the Roseville Pottery decision which classed equipment and buildings, some of it even under ground, as personal property.

The rub, so far as revenue is concerned, is that personal property is listed at a lower valuation than real property. The rate, however, is the same.

Just what Fayette County would stand to lose if the real to personal property shift becomes general is highly conjectural. No official even wants to think about it, much less hazard a guess in dollars and cents.

So concerned are city and county officials all over Ohio, a committee was named at a special meeting in Columbus soon after the Roseville Pottery case decision.

Fayette County's auditor, Ulric Acton, and the treasurer, Charles A. Fabb, were there.

Then For Farmers Too

Fabb contended at the time that if big industries are permitted to list everything but the land as personal property, then Fayette County's farmers should have the same privilege.

Both Fabb and Acton agreed that something should be done to end the confusion. The suggested state legislation redefining property for tax purposes as one logical approach to a solution of the problem.

The question was brought to a head here when Fabb rejected token payments on the Scioto-Sandusky Conservancy assessment by the railroad companies which have lines crossing Fayette County.

A hearing was held by the county board of revision more than a month ago. The outcome is still pending.

Lorain Industry Case

In the Lorain case of the National Tube Co. the state Board of Tax Appeals had first ruled it had no jurisdiction to decide an appeal by the company against a $99,808 tax assessment by Frank Ayers, the Lorain County auditor. It contend- ed the case should first go to the county Board of Revision.

The company had asked the board to declare two blast furnaces and 840 feet of 12-inch pipe line personal property.

Glander said that should the county Board of Revision return the case to the state Tax Appeals Board he "eventually might have to change" his ruling on tax classification.

He added he could take the case to the Ohio Supreme Court.

Personal property is taxed on one-half of its value; real estate at full value.

"Repeated decisions changing property from real to personal been included in the firm's personal tax payments.

The firm's contention was based on a Supreme Court decision in 1937 in which similar equipment belonging to the Standard Oil Co. was declared personal property.

The county auditor valued the furnaces at $1,810,903.

The company said the equipment was personal property and had been omitted from its real property tax duplicate.

The county auditor valued the furnaces at $1,810,903.

Board Member C. C. Sherick said the State Appeals Board's decision followed the principles set down by the Ohio Supreme Court in two recent cases involving classification of pottery kilns belonging to two Zanesville firms.

U. S. 22 Closed To Move Bridge

Runaround Will Soon Be Ready For Use

U. S. Route 22 just east of this city, has been closed to traffic while the work of moving the bridge over East Fork of Paint Creek from its foundations, to the runaround is under way.

It will be several days before the work of moving the bridge is completed and the runaround is ready for use.

Meanwhile the heavy bulldozers and trucks are continuing to cut away the small hill east of Paint Creek and south of U. S. 22 to build up the approaches of the bridge, which are much wider than ever before.

William J. Hiltz, county superintendent of schools, said he and Kenneth Craig, superintendent at Wayne Centralized Schools (Good Hope) will be present at the sale.

17-Year Locusts Are Back in Ohio And with Them Comes Old Puzzle

BY RICHARD HUILL WESP
COLUMBUS, June 24—(P)—A strange hum is emanating from the woodlands of eastern Ohio and West Virginia to provoke a question:

"What makes the 17-year-locust a 17-year-locust?"

Known in the textbooks as cicadas, these tree-murdering insects appear each 17th year. For West Virginia and eastern Ohio, 1948 is the year.

Scientists can't explain how cicadas began doing things in 17 year cycles, but—except for an occasional maverick who is contrary—the 17-year-locust has never been known to go off schedule.

The present cicada serenade, a miniature air raid siren sound, represents the vanguard of many millions of the bugs anticipated this summer.

The noise comes from the husband in the cicada family and is produced with a drum under his wings. The female is silent.

The cicada is just a born nuisance. In fact, it's in getting born that he does all of his damage. Cicada eggs are always laid in holes drilled in the branches of trees by the female. When they hatch the branches die. The damage done this way to fruit trees in past locust invasions has cost farmers thousands of dollars.

After it is born the grub falls to the ground, burrows and doesn't come topside for seventeen years. It's the longest-lived known insect, but it spends only six weeks above ground.

They eat only while they are in the grub stage, living on roots and decayed vegetable matter. During the six weeks they are fully-fledged insects they slowly starve.

There is an old wife's tale that cicadas bring worms with them. That nasty bit of gossip probably stems from the perfectly formed "W" imprinted on their wings.

While West Virginia and eastern Ohio are the locust convention states this year there's no reason for the rest of the country to feel slighted. The wee beasties will appear for some time to come, and this is how entomologists estimate their schedule around the country:

In 1953 there will be locusts from New York to Missouri, and from Michigan to northern Alabama and Georgia. That year they will hit western Ohio and parts of Indiana and Illinois, as well. In 1957 they will appear in

New Jersey, Pennsylvania, northern Georgia and parts of Tennessee and West Virginia.

Fishermen in those states might borrow from the experience of folks around Gallipolis, Ohio.

"Bass can't resist them," they say.

Life isn't all just a song for these pop-eyed, brown and green insects, however. The locust has enemies. The cicada killer, a hornet which feeds on 17-year-locusts—and it's a long time between meals—is the arch villain in cicada country.

Sparrows, who relish locusts, might have exterminated the cicadas long ago if they were smarter. Every seventeen years these birds have to re-discover what tasty tidbits the locusts are, and by the time they get around to eating them the female cicadas have planted their eggs and the cycle continues.

Scientists are experimenting with an insecticide called tetraethyl pyrophosphate. Still in the testing stage, it kills on contact and there's a strong possibility that it will throw a wrench into any plans the locusts might have for 1965.

Entomologists predict that seventeen-year-locusts are gradually becoming extinct. Every time a tree is felled that's one less place for a locust to be born in. So the locusts' numbers are dwindling down to the billions now.

Wallace Big News In Russian Press

MOSCOW, June 24—(P)—The Soviet government newspaper Izvestia skipped all mention of the Republican national convention in Philadelphia yesterday and reported instead on the creation of a third party movement supporting Henry A. Wallace in Ohio.

(Ohio's Secretary of State Edward Hummel, banned the party from the ballot. A hearing is pending before the state supreme court on an appeal by followers of Wallace.)

Action Aplenty In Both Games

13-Run Inning Marks Baker Win

There was never a dull moment for those fans who like action around the base paths in Wednesday night's two Recreation League games at Wilson Field.

All told, there were 23 hits and 42 runners scampered across home plate in the 14 innings of play.

But the best part of it was neither game was decided by a lopsided score as is so often the case in these free-hitting and free-running affairs.

Everything was going along just dandy in the first game for five innings. It was a close game with a tight defense on both sides and effective pitching. Then the roof came in on the Mortons—with a lusty 13-run shooe by Pennington's Bakers.

When it was over, the Bakers held a 17 to 11 victory.

The second game, which Jeffersonville won, 8 to 6, from the Armbrusts, did not have quite such a wild end and woolly windup as the first game of the evening's twin bill.

The Jeffersonville outfit staged a 5-run spurge in the third inning that proved to be the turning point. However, neither team ever held a safe enough lead to coast.

Baseball 'Fix' Up for Hearing

Carolina League Officials on Spot

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., June 24.—(P)—Hearings were scheduled in municipal court here today for four men charged with baseball "fixing" involving a Carolina League game here May 14.

Two of the principals have been banned from organized baseball for life. They are Emanuel (Ed) Weingarten, former North and South Carolina minor league official, and Barney DeForge, former pitcher-manager of the Reidsville Club of the Carolina loop.

Weingarten, DeForge and W. C. McWaters, automobile dealer of Clover S. C., have been charged with bribery in connection with the alleged fixing of the May 14 Reidsville-Winston-Salem game.

The fourth defendant, charged with conspiracy in the case was arrested yesterday. Capt. W. R. Burke of the Winston-Salem police department identified him as Tommy Phillips, also of Clover and a used car dealer.

Weingarten and DeForge were banished from organized baseball June 1, by minor league head George Trautman following investigation of the May 14 game.

Knothole League Game Results

Some keen competition developed in the Knothole League game between the Indians and Senators at Gardner Park Wednesday. The Indians won 11 to 9.

Meanwhile, over at Wilson Field, the Yankees were trouncing the Red Sox, 15 to 3.

Joe's Again Set For Title Fight

Battlers Fidget And Watch Clouds

NEW YORK, June 24—(P)—Joe Louis and Jersey Joe Walcott fidgeted today while the elements pondered a suitable time for them to settle their dispute over the heavyweight boxing championship of the world.

Falling like needles on the tense atmosphere, a heavy downpour shortly after noon yesterday forced postponement of the 15-round engagement at Yankee Stadium—Louis' 25th title defense.

The contest immediately was rescheduled for tonight at 9 P.M. EST, weather permitting.

The weather bureau, in a rut,

Roberts held the Reds to seven hits, and only Litwhiler got two of them. Five of the hits were singles. He also struck out nine Reds.

Tommy Hughes and Walker Cress scattered nine hits among the Phils, but the Phils got two runs off two hits, a walk and a fielder's choice in the second. The Phils winning run came in the fourth. Richie Ashburn walked, stole second and scored on Harry Walker's single.

The game was the only one played in the National League. A scheduled doubleheader between Chicago and New York and single games between Pittsburgh and Brooklyn and St. Louis and Boston were postponed because of rain.

The fourth defendant, charged with conspiracy in the case was arrested yesterday. Capt. W. R. Burke of the Winston-Salem police department identified him as Tommy Phillips, also of Clover and a used car dealer.

Son of Willkie Recalls Thrill Of 8 Years Ago

Political Career Just Beginning for Phillip Willkie

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY

PHILADELPHIA, (AP) — The sights, sounds, smells and talk of this convention-bound city bring memories flooding back to one young Indiana alternate.

It was the 1940 Republican Convention and he sat in the bright glare close to the speakers' platform in the big Convention Hall, watching tensely as the states swung to the support of a big, raspy-voiced hoosier. His father stayed back in the center of town, in his hotel suite.

"It was hot," Philip Willkie recalled today, "much hotter than now. You could feel the excitement in the air, on the street. Indiana started to break ... Dewey fell apart ... then it was Wendell Willkie and Taft."

Philip, now 28, does not resemble his father physically. He is of middle height, stocky and with straight blond hair. But he has inherited his father's love of politics and the harsh, flat voice with its mid-western accent.

Like Wendell Willkie, he's a lawyer, starting out in Rushville, in the heart of the corn country which has been his family's home for generations. At the moment he is on the threshold of his own political career: Republican candidate in a heavily Republican district for the state legislature.

"I got it the hard way," he said. "I rang doorbells, I made speeches everywhere and I traveled more than 8,000 miles--clocked it on my own car."

When the primary votes were counted, Willkie had picked up 877 per cent of the votes. He immediately thanked the people for their indirect tribute to his father, who died four years ago.

"He was an exciting, dramatic and challenging man," Philip Willkie said of his father. "I never expect again to have as much fun doing anything as I had talking to him."

"He won because he was worrying about what was happening to the world. And he won because the enthusiasm of the public forced it."

Young Willkie wouldn't even attempt to dope the outcome of this convention. His delegation is pledged to its favorite son, Rep. Charles Halleck, at the outset.

"This convention seems to be tightening up," he said. "In the history of conventions, very interesting things have happened to favorite sons—if they stayed in long enough."

Wendell Willkie's only child looked down on the crowd milling and talking around convention headquarters. He drew a deep breath.

"It all seems very long ago," he said. "At least some of it does."

CHAPTER TWENTY

THE FIREPLACE balanced the wide door to the library and at the other end of the room a series of windows went across the entire width. There were windows cut in the barn wall to the south, too, so that the view of the mountains was framed by them. But on the north, or road, side of the old barn the two small original windows had been left, and no new ones added.

But he wished, as he drove back again to supervise the erection of the mantelpiece, that it had been Joan he had shown around. He wished that she had given some sign of interest in what he was doing—no matter how small. Instead, she had taken his business orders with quiet efficiency and no comment, and not once, in all this time, had she ever asked him how things were going.

He didn't care about other people. In fact, he preferred to have the place presented to them in its finished form, and he was already planning the housewarming he would have when it was completed, and his furniture had arrived and had been installed. Andrew told Joan to see it before that.

He stopped at Eph's that afternoon to have his battery checked, and Joe sprang into the front seat and onto his lap. "Say, that cat's gettin' downright familiar. Kick him out if you don't want him there," Eph said with a shake of his head.

"I like it. Besides, it proves he's a superior cat."

"Just 'cause he likes you?" Eph chuckled. "So you're human, after all. I began to think, after the tales I been hearing all day, you was something between Alexander of Macedon and Jack Dempsey. You must be some scrapper!"

Andrew was embarrassed. He murmured something deprecating, and bent over Joe to scratch him behind the ears. "And you look so doggone mild, that's what gets everybody," Eph added. "Now, take me. My pa tried to teach me to fight when I was a kid, and when he got tired of tryin', my older brother took me on. But they neither of 'em knew very much themselves, and I've been as meek as butter ever since."

Andrew laughed, but before he could speak, Eph demanded, "The boys are all wondering—were you one of them commandos in the bathroom and the kitchen?"

Andrew's face sobered. He said somberly, "I wasn't anything in the war—I was turned down by the army."

Eph giggled. "You're kidding. What'd they find the matter—you have three moles where you should have had only two?"

"I had a touch of T. B. when I was a kid, and that did the trick," Andrew told him.

Eph shook his head. "Now, that's a shame. But that's what livin' in crowded cities can do to you. It's a good thing you've decided to settle in the country."

Andrew drove off, not quite sure whether Eph thought he had spent his childhood in a city slum, or not. Well, he had told it now. And if he knew Branfield, he was sure that Joan would hear it before long. It was no disgrace, and he was wholly cured the doctors had said, but he had wanted her to know, and it was hardly the sort of thing you could introduce suddenly into a conversation.

Mrs. Potts was returned to her home well supplied with conversational material for weeks to come. He knew that she would no sooner get in the house before she would be on the phone, informing her cronies of the changes that were taking place at the old Wheeler farm. He knew, too, that her approval would silence many tongues which might be tempted to criticize his outlandish ideas.

But he wished, as he drove back again to supervise the erection of the mantelpiece, that it had been Joan he had shown around. He wished that she had given some sign of interest in what he was doing—no matter how small. Instead, she had taken his business orders with quiet efficiency and no comment, and not once, in all this time, had she ever asked him how things were going.

Andrew sat down abruptly. "Ah!" he said with some satisfaction. "I was sure that barn had been moved. It was on the wrong side of the house, for one thing—whoever heard of going into a barn from the bedroom?"

Mrs. Potts nodded in agreement. "Exactly! And what else made you think so?" She was curious. "Well, I couldn't imagine anyone in his senses slapping a barn right up against a chimney that way. Too much of a fire hazard. But the very first time I examined that chimney, I decided it hadn't been used in a long time."

"Nor it hadn't, either," Mrs. Potts said, giving him an approving glance. "They didn't have many critters those last few years, after all. I began to think he had been moved, but old Mr. Wheeler wouldn't have a fire on the hearth. He got one of those big oil heaters—look like a small furnace, they do—and it kept the room fine without being too much of a risk for the barn."

She was in a discursive mood, and at any other time, Andrew would have been only too glad to sit and listen to her. He always learned something of interest about his fellow townspeople from her, but tonight was the night he was to take Joan to dinner and the movies. He explained this to Mrs. Potts before he dashed up for a shower and a change of clothing, and she stopped in her tracks to stare at him. "Well," she said, "you know I just can't understand that girl!"

He would have liked to find out what she meant, but the minutes were flying. When he slid behind the wheel of his car he felt something warm and fuzzy beside him.

Looking down in the darkness, he could just make out the mottled form of Joe. "Hey," he said in surprise, "whatever are you doing in here?"

Joe rubbed against him purring like a miniature rumble of thunder. "Were you in this car all afternoon?" Andrew demanded, and Joe looked up at him with eyes that caught the dash-light with a green glow. It meant one more delay, and Andrew groaned at the thought. He was almost late now. But he couldn't keep Joe in the car all night. Luckily Eph Merwell was just closing up his gas station. Andrew opened the car door, gave Joe a boost out, and shouted, "Your cat must have been in my car all afternoon. I just found him."

Eph lumbered over. "Still think he's a superior cat?" he inquired with a chuckle.

"More than ever."

Speedy Work Resurfacing Streets Here

First Layer Nearly Complete on Most Of Court Street

Moving forward rapidly in the resurfacing of Court Street and Columbus Avenue, the Clinton Construction Company late Wednesday completed the first layer on Court Street from Hinde to Columbus and Washington avenues, except one strip on the south side of the street from a point a half square east of North Street to Washington Avenue.

Thursday morning the work of laying the first thickness of black top was started on Columbus Avenue, and was proceeding rapidly at the noon hour, with the center strip having been laid to Willard St., and work on the second strip under way.

When the first layer on the two streets is finished, the work of placing the final layer, of fine material and about one inch in thickness, will get under way.

From end to end on the paving, Court Street is perfectly smooth, and when the final layer is placed the street will represent one of the finest pieces of paving possible.

A great many people have watched with interest, the various processes used by the Clinton Construction Co., from the preparatory work of filling depressions, to laying the material with one of the latest type spreaders, and then rolling it with rollers to insure it being in perfect condition.

It is necessary to keep water over the rollers while the hot mix is being rolled, to prevent the mixture from sticking to the rollers.

A water tank keeps the rollers and spreader supplied with the large amount of water needed in handling the hot mix. Trucks fill the hopper of the spreader with the hot material while the spreader is on the move.

Armory Use Banned

There are other financial problems which might be prohibitive to kindergarten classes in the Armory, the captain said. He estimated the cost of extra heating and lighting at between $700 and $800 a year. This would not include, he said, the necessary janitorial service.

There are no funds available for necessary expansion of toilet facilities and it is doubtful that there is space, according to the captain. A state inspector recently recommended installation of one additional toilet in the girl's lavatory if the school took over use of the Armory in the daytime for a kindergarten.

Capt. Williams explained that use of the Armory by schools for basketball playing during the winter is limited to hours when the guard is not drilling and the caretaker has finished his work for the day.

The Armory, the guard officer pointed out, is inspected at regular intervals by the Inspector General's Department of the army.

"The first question the inspectors ask when they come to the Armory is, 'Does outside activity in the Armory interfere with National Guard training?'"

A "yes" answer, the captain asserted, would result in orders to "get rid" of that activity.

No comment was forthcoming immediately from representatives of the Citizens School Committee. It appeared likely, however, that this group would continue its efforts to keep kindergarten classes in the school system during the coming year.

Mercury Hits 93 Degree Mark

Temperature During Night Very High

Peak temperature here Wednesday afternoon was 93 degrees, or two degrees higher than the previous day, according to the government thermometers in custody of Observer Coyt A. Stookey.

While the official reading was 93 degrees, the blazing sun sent thermometers as high as 120 on the street Wednesday afternoon.

However, a breeze throughout the day did much toward making the high temperatures bearable.

Wednesday night was an unusually warm one, and at no time did the mercury drop below 72 degrees, with the result that a great many persons were robbed of much of their usual sleep.

At 8 A. M. Thursday the mercury stood at 80 degrees, or four below the reading just 24 hours previous.

A year ago the peak was 81 degrees and minimum 51 for this date.

Some relief was held out by the weatherman who forecast scattered thunder showers during Thursday.

Former Justice Facing Charges

CIRCLEVILLE, June 24—Harold O. Eveland, resigned Justice of the peace, has been indicted by the Pickaway County Grand Jury for embezzlement of $8,588.04 in state and county funds.

The indictment was returned upon information presented by Kenneth Robbins, county prosecutor, and on findings of a state examiner who audited Eveland's accounts.

The amount due the county treasury was found to be $5,057.45, with $2,440.95 due the state; $775 due the state conservation division, and $314 due the sheriff for fees.

The grand jury also indicted Vonnies Williams, 25, of Mt. Sterling, on a second degree manslaughter charge for the traffic death of Miss Garrett Zeimer, 17, of Stoutsburg.

John S. Hickman Rites Are Held in Jamestown

Funeral services for John S. Hickman, 61, Jamestown R. 2, who died Tuesday afternoon in the office of Dr. R. L. Haines, of Jamestown, were held Thursday at 2 P. M. at the Powers Funeral Home in Jamestown, and burial made at Grape Grove.

Mr. Hickman was the father of Milo Hickman, of Washington C. H., and also leaves four other sons, a step-daughter and brother.
